Ex-Japanese leader arrested in scandal

TOKYO (AP) — Former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, the rags-to-riches political maverick who resigned under a cloud 19 months ago, was arrested today on charges of being involved in the Lockheed payoff scandal.

The public prosecutor said Tanaka and Toshio Enomoto, his secretary when he was prime minister, were accused of receiving $1.7 million (500 million yen) from an official of the Marubeni trading company, Lockheed's agent at the time.

The arrest stunned the Japan's closely related political and business worlds. The yen plunged 53 points, and prices dropped on the Tokyo stock exchange.

Prime Minister Takeo Miki, who succeeded Tanaka at the head of the conservative government, told a news conference the arrest of his predecessor was "the greatest trial faced by the Liberal-Democratic party" since its formation in 1955. He said his job was to reestablish public confidence in the government.

The arrest was also a godsend to Miki personally. Tanaka headed one of the numerous powerful factions in the ruling party and had joined forces with the party vice president, Etsusaburo Shiina, Deputy Premier Takeo Fukuda and Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira to try to oust Miki, charging him with indecisiveness. Tanaka's arrest was expected to shatter this opposition movement.

Tanaka, 58, and Enomoto, 50, were charged with violating the foreign exchange control law.

The former premier was arrested at the prosecutor's office, where he had gone voluntarily for questioning. He was taken to a house of detention.

Four hours after his arrest, he submitted his resignation from the Liberal-Democratic party. He is also still a member of the lower house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament, but there was no indication whether he would resign from it also.

Enomoto, who was ill, left his hospital bed to submit to arrest.

A total of 16 Japanese now have been arrested in connection with the $12 million which Lockheed officials told a U.S. Senate subcommittee the aircraft corporation paid to promote the sale of its planes in Japan.

Tanaka is the first leader of the Liberal-Democrats to be arrested, although Yoshio Kodama, an influence peddler and backroom power in the party, is accused of getting more than $6 million in Lockheed money. He has not been arrested because he is bedridden following a stroke.

The others arrested were officials of Marubeni or of All Nippon Airways, the country's largest domestic airline.

Lockheed payoffs were made to get the government to buy the company's P3c Orion antisubmarine patrol plane instead of having a plane produced in Japan, and to get All Nippon Airways to buy the Lockheed TriStar Airbus.

Tanaka was believed involved in the decision to buy the Orion. He was prime minister from July 6, 1972, until he resigned Dec. 8, 1974, and a spokesman for the prosecutor's office said the payoffs to him and Enomoto allegedly took place between Aug. 9, 1973, and Feb. 18, 1974.

MEMBERS of the Washington C.H. Fire Department's local 2474 union of the International Association of Firefighters announced that during last weekend's Muscular Dystrophy Association campaign they raised approximately $250 for the association.

The two-day fund-raising drive was part of a national campaign by the International Association of Firefighters to collect money for muscular dystrophy research and facilities, firemen said.

THE 1976 Ohio State Fair is drawing nearer with opening day scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 26. Fairgoers still have a chance to save money by purchasing admission tickets in advance from county 4-H club members.

Ohio's 212,000 4-H club members are selling advance tickets for $1.50 each, a 50-cent savings, through Aug. 25.

For every advance ticket sold, 25 cents will be retained by the county 4-H program and 10 cents will go to the Ohio 4-H Foundation endowment fund.

For further information, persons should contact the Fayette County Extension Office at 335-1150.

THE CARNEGIE Public Library is planning to show two movies for children on Aug. 10 and Aug. 11 as a finale to its series of summer programs. Both movies are to be shown at 3 p.m. on the second floor of the library.

"Babes in Toyland" will be show for pre-school and first grade children on Tuesday, Aug. 10, and "Brightly of Grand Canyon" is scheduled for second through sixth grade children on Wednesday, Aug. 11. There will be no registration and the movies are free of charge.

A NEW FEATURE entitled "Book nook" appears in today's Record-Herald.

The feature, written by Eric Halverson, the new librarian at the Carnegie Public Library in Washington C.H., reviews new books and other material at the local library. The feature will be written by Halverson and carried by the Record-Herald on a regular basis.

HIGHLAWN Memory Gardens will hold its summer cleanup the first week of August. Those who wish to preserve items on graves are asked to remove them by the end of the month, according to superintendent Nelson McCann.

Florida State GOP Chairman Bill Taylor, a Ford supporter, said Schweiker is farther to the left than Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

"The people I've talked to are aghast. I sense that in the South it will have an adverse effect," Taylor said. The announcement marked an abrupt about-face for Reagan on several counts.

For weeks, Reagan has been telling supporters that it would be "presumptuous" and possibly illegal for him to name his vice presidential preference prior to the national convention.

And he repeatedly assured supporters that his choice could be someone compatible with his own conservative philosophy. "I don't believe in the old tradition of picking someone at the opposite end of the political spectrum because he can get some votes you can't get yourself," Reagan said as recently as July 9 in Colorado.

Schweiker, who last year received an 89 per cent approval rating from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and a 100 per cent score from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, does not fit the profile Reagan had outlined for his supporters.

On Monday, Reagan described only very general areas of agreement between himself and Schweiker and said the Pennsylvania was a man of "broad general appeal" whose "basic

FLIPPO AND KIDS — Flippo the Clown of WBNS-TV (Channel 10) in Columbus attracted a huge following of fans the minute he stepped onto the Fayette County Fairgrounds Monday afternoon. After eating his lunch and visiting those enjoying their lunches on the fair race track infield, he presented a magic show in the grandstand area and then circulated free photographs of himself.

Lured by a 10-dash harness horse racing card and free grandstand admission, a total of 2,654 paying customers flocked to the Fayette County Fair Monday evening.

The attendance figure was favorable in comparison to last year's record-breaking fair attendance. Last year, 2,578 persons paid their way into the fair on Monday.

Additional photographs of Fayette County Fair activities can be found on pages 2, 5 and 9 of today's edition.

George Finley, secretary of the Fayette County Agricultural Society (county fair board), reported that in addition to the 2,654 paid admissions after 4 p.m., a total of 594 cars parked on the fairground lots.

There was some livestock judging and all animals were in their respective barns by Monday evening. A garden tractor pull and the first of three 4-H fashion revues also helped increase the attendance.

Also on tap Monday was the old fashioned community picnic in the race track infield with a magic show by WBNS-TV personality Flippo the Clown. The picnic and Flippo were termed as a big success, according to fair officials.

As the weatherman had promised, clear skies and bright sunshine kept the fairgrounds very warm as the high temperature reached toward the 90-degree mark. The day of sunshine helped the race track and it was in excellent condition for the first of three big nights of racing.

With a practice that started in 1974, no grandstand admission will be charged for the remaining two nights of harness horse racing.

Animals entered in the beef, lamb, and hog carcass shows were evaluated alive on Monday and then shipped to various slaughter houses to be processed.

Todd Cook captured first place in the steer carcass division followed by Scott Gerber. Both steers came from the

High-wheeled sulkies in action

Mixed emotions follow races

By GEORGE MALEK

One could hardly leave the grandstand without mixed emotions Monday night.

The highlight of activities at the Fayette County Fair Monday was harness racing, both the good and the bad of it.

On the plus side, those who attended the races were treated to an opportunity to watch some of Ohio's finest drivers in action. Among them were Brad Farrington and Dale Hiteman, Scioto Downs regulars.

They also had a preview of several horses who will be heard from again. Millie Meter, a two-year-old filly pacer, turned in the best time, a 2:07.2, and the youngster has a bright future.

Fair Errorless, another two-year-old filly, turned in a 2:08.3 and a 2:09.2 in her two heats, and Scooter Q, a three-year-old trotter, travelled the oval in identical 2:09 times in his two heats. The record time for a trotter here is 2:06. Farrington guided Scooter Q to his victories.

One of the evening's highlights was the four-horse race of high-wheeled sulkies. Decked in old fashioned colors, the drivers led their charges to a four-wide finish for which only a close study of photos could have determined a winner. Since there was no purse or wagering, no determination was made.

Wagering, however, presented its own series of

During closed session

City solons discuss vacant Council seat

Washington C. H. City Council members met Monday night in a closed executive session to discuss several personnel matters.

The meeting lasted more than two hours and touched on a number of topics, including the City Council seat which will become vacant Aug. 1.

Councilmember Eddie Fisher has tendered his resignation effective as of July 30. He will attend his final meeting as a member of City Council at Wednesday's session.

Although Fisher has been adamant in his desire to vacate the Council seat, some members of the city's legislative body apparently feel there is still hope of changing his mind.

Monday's session marked the second executive meeting to consider a replacement, and as yet no names have been entered into the discussions, Council members reported.

The possibility of convincing Fisher to remain on Council has been discussed at both meetings, and Council has not yet formally accepted his resignation.

There have been several problems in the Washington C. H. Police Department, and this was discussed briefly, officials said.

The department is already undermanned and there are reports that one or more officers may resign in the near future. Low pay for police officers has been mentioned at several meetings, and being short-handed the department has had to call upon officers to work overtime and "days off" to fill the gap.

A portion of the meeting was devoted to discussions of other city departments. These included the city manager's handling of a number of controversial situations in the general operation of the city, according to one of those present.

Council reportedly questioned his approach to some situations while applauding his overall objectives. It was also reported that Council members endorsed his approach to several other problems.

Schweiker selection in desperation?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's strategists say the selection of Sen. Richard S. Schweiker as vice presidential running mate has strengthened Reagan's presidential campaign and broadened his political base.

But backers of President Ford called the Reagan announcement a desperate play for delegates by a losing candidate.

Reagan named the Pennsylvania lawmaker — one of the most liberal members of the Senate — in a surprise move Monday.

Just three weeks before opening of the Republican National Convention, Ford is 36 delegates away from the nomination with 1,094, in the Associated Press survey. Reagan trails with 1,025 and 109 delegates were uncommitted, including 26 in Schweiker's home state.

Reagan backers were generally mum about the announcement. Spokesmen for the Reagan campaign emphasized points where Schweiker agrees with the former California governor's conservative philosophy.

The consensus was that Reagan stands to gain in the Northeast, where he is weakest. But he may suffer in the South and West, where his support rests in large part with legally uncommitted delegates.

"I think it broadens our base noticeably," Lyn Nofziger, a close political confidant of Reagan, said of the Schweiker announcement.

"This is a guy who has won elections statewide in a tough state for Republicans. He undoubtedly is going to go up there and work hard to win those delegates. Schweiker will work throughout the Northeast into the Ohio Valley.

"I think it's much too early to tell whether it's going to hurt us in the South or the West. I think by the time many of those delegates in the South have looked the situation over and looked at Schweiker, I'm sure there will be any hurt there."

Ford's backers initially were cautious in their reaction. But they quickly raised a counteroffensive.

"It appears to be an effort to exchange the second highest office in the land for a handful of delegates," said Ford campaign manager Rogers C.B. Morton.

Cook tops beef carcass show

Todd Cook took the alive evaluation of the Junior Fair beef carcass show at the Fayette County Fair Monday evening.

Cook's steer placed first in the heavyweight division of the carcass show and then placed first overall with the top five winners from the heavyweight and lightweight divisions. Scott Gerber took second place in the overall division while gaining a second behind Cook in the heavyweight competition. Alan Miller took first place in the lightweight division and was third in the overall show behind

Cook and Gerber.

The steers, evaluated on hoof Monday, will be sent to various slaughter houses to be processed and the carcass champion will be sold at auction at the Junior Fair beer sale Friday night at the sales-show arena.

Intelligence probe nears completion

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt says the panel's hearings on the leak of a secret intelligence committee report have narrowed the search for the person who supplied the report to CBS reporter Daniel Schorr.

But Flynt refused to speculate if his committee would be able to identify the source after the $150,000 probe is completed.

"We found out a great deal. We found out much more than we found out in the informal interviews between investigators and the witnesses," Flynt said in an interview Monday.

"I think we have received sworn testimony which is both cumulative and is in addition to the information we gained during the informal hearing process," he said.

Before the hearings, committee investigators had interviewed more than 400 persons and had said they had been unable to track down Schorr's source. Asked if the hearings that began last week had moved the committee closer to finding the source, Flynt said:

"That's not the sole purpose of these hearings. But in answer to your direct question, yes.

"The overriding purpose is to find out how things like this could happen and hopefully to make recommendations which would tighten up the handling of classified material, classified documents and security matters by the House and by committees."

Asked if he envisioned having to report back to the House that the committee couldn't find Schorr's source, Flynt said, "I am not going to second-guess what the committee is going to do. Even at this time, and certainly by the time hearings end, we will be in a position to file a good report to the House ... and will have accomplished the mission given us."

During Monday's hearing, the committee questioned Rep. Robert M. Giaimo, D-Conn., a member of the now-defunct intelligence committee, and two former staff members of the panel.

Giaimo appealed for revision of rules that keep congressmen from revealing embarrassing information even though they may feel the information should be known by the public.

Ohio's Cradle was the Massachusetts town of Rutland, home of Gen. Rufus Putnam. He and Benjamin Tupper signed advertisements published in New England papers Jan. 25, 1786, inviting soldiers of the Revolution and "all other good citizens" to join the Ohio Company which later founded Marietta.

Poorly kept secrets

After weeks of trying to find out how Daniel Schorr got hold of a copy of the Intelligence Committee report, the House Ethics Committee is stymied. It just cannot say who leaked this document to the television newsmen. The irony is that, judging by testimony before the Ethics panel, almost anyone could have.

Supposedly this report about covert operations by the CIA and other intelligence groups was held in tightest secrecy pending its release. When it appeared in print without authorization, thanks to Schorr's passing it on to the Village Voice, cries of outrage were heard in Congress. One got the impression that the very holy of holies just have been penetrated to obtain the document, which the full House had voted to keep secret until President Ford could look it over and make deletions in the name of national security.

The notion collapses under the impact of James Oliphant's testimony that "security was very, very lax" in the Intelligence Committee. The extent of that laxity as described by Oliphant seems hardly credible, yet he should know: he served as the Committee's counsel.

Among other things he told the Ethics panel: "People in charge of files did not have any library or any security background. People kept materials in their own desks, including classified material - top secret." Moreover, he said, some committee staff members went so far as to copy confidential data on office duplicating machines, placing the copies in their own files.

It would appear, then, that the Intelligence Committee was a veritable sieve. With secret material floating around like that, one would think, slipping away a copy of the report would have been a cinch. The wonder is that a lot of other newsmen besides Schorr didn't also receive copies.

WASHINGTON CALLING....By Marquis Childs

Four rare political birds

NEW YORK — After the feast of love, harmony and sweet goodwill that the Democrats put on it is almost a relief to find the old politics of fang and claw still at work.

Fittingly it is here in New York that the mayhem so familiar in past skirmishes is on the boards.

Four candidates are fighting for the Democratic nomination for a Senate seat and the privilege of running against Sen. James Buckley, a Republican and a conservative.

This disparate and hostile four make up a kind of political aviary ready at a moment's notice to scratch out a rival's eyes.

The showiest of the lot, a peacock of sorts, is Daniel Patrick Moynihan, who created a national reputation for himself as delegate to the United Nations when he came to the defense of Israel with a bravura attack on the third world nations.

Having in theory at last returned to his professorship at Harvard when he left the U.N., Moynihan waited until it was certain that Jimmy Carter would be the Democratic nominee and would presumably unite the party before he announced for the Senate.

The conventional wisdom is that because of his U.N. performance, the massive Jewish vote in this city will be his with no more ado. By leading the assault on the third world resolution equating Zionism with racism Moynihan, who had faithfully served President Nixon in the White House, won Jewish voters to the extent that when he under takes a campaign stroll he is so overwhelmed by admirers as to make progress all but impossible.

But on one previous occasion Moynihan showed himself to be a poor if an indifferent campaigner. With Rep. Bella Abzug as rival he cannot take the Jewish vote for granted. She is a tireless campaigner with a voice that can carry the length of a football field without benefit of amplification. With her inevitable hat as her trademark, she is a rare bird who is currently demonstrating her money-raising ability.

Ramsey Clark is a persistent game cock, a transplanted Texan who was Lyndon Johnson's U.S. Attorney General. Although he lost his try for the Senate for New York two years ago, Clark cannot be ruled out this time. With such a divided field a small loyal constituency can carry the day and Clark has such a constituency growing out of his impassioned opposition to the Vietnam War.

During a visit to Hanoi while the war was still raging he gave an interview carried on Hanoi radio that brought widespread criticism. He is the hero of the "Amnesty Now" faction whose members give him the highest marks for his opposition to Vietnam.

The candidate who got the official stamp of approval from the New York State Democratic organization is City Council President Paul O'Dwyer. O'Dwyer is 1968 was a disciple of Eugene McCarthy who in 1968 fought the nomination of Hubert Humphrey down to the last ditch.

O'Dwyer was the Democratic candidate for the Senate that year and it was not until the last day or two of the campaign that he saw fit to give a few words of praise to Humphrey in the closest of contests with Nixon.

Incidentally, although the recent gala in Madison Square Garden gave not a sign of it, McCarthy is alive and well. Despite restrictive and often archaic statutes in the several states, he is battling to get his name on the presidential ballot.

By one optimistic estimate he may succeed in giving the voters a third choice in as many as 45 states. As a spoiler he could cut across the Carter-Mondale ticket in states where McCarthy's liberalism is still a hopeful vision.

Although O'Dwyer was given the official organization nod, the names of the three other candidates were also approved for the primary ballot. But this did not apply to still another candidate, Abraham Hirschfeld, a wealthy businessman. Hirschfeld is reported to be spending large chunks of his own money to get on the ballot by the petition route.

As for Sen. Buckley who won the endorsement of the Republican party, with even Vice President Nelson Rockefeller wishing him well he can only hope that these five contenders will kill each other off in September leaving him with a clear edge for reelection in November.

But the big question is what the Republicans will do at their convention in Kansas City next month. If Ronald Reagan should win the presidential nomination or even if he should be shosen by President Ford for the No. 2 spot, Buckley's position would be difficult if not impossible.

He could not repudiate Reagan, the leader of the conservatives, although he would know full well that the Reagan name is anathema to liberal-to-moderate voters in this state.

In that event a Jimmy Carter sweep could overwhelm the only member of the Senate elected on a Conservative ticket. While he has not had exactly a distinguished record in the Senate, he is nevertheless a symbol supposedly of what Reagan is appealing for.

State immunity law clarified by solons

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The controversial legal device of granting immunity from prosecution for testimony in criminal trials is clarified to protect both witnesses and courts by a law effective today.

The legislation is designed to enable judges in the state court system to grant immunity to witnesses who might otherwise refuse to testify on the grounds of self-incrimination.

Under the new law, such witnesses are guaranteed that information resulting directly or indirectly from their testimony will not be used against them in any subsequent criminal case.

However, once the immunity is granted, the witness could not refuse to testify on grounds that his revelations might tend to incriminate him.

Exceptions to immunity protection are made for perjury, tampering with evidence, falsification or contempt.

"The statute also attempts to deal with possible abuse or frivolous use of immunity by mandating that the grant may only be given "in the interest of justice."

"This would mean that the court would have to find that it was more important to the state that a particular crime be investigated or punished than that a witness be freed from the threat of prosecution for his participation in the same or other crimes," according to the Legislative Service Commission.

The bill, sponsored by Sens. Morris M. Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, and Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland, was prompted in part by a 1975 Ohio Supreme Court decision. The court said Ohio law was ambiguous on the matter of grants of immunity.

At the heart of the law is the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which provides, in part, that "No person...shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

The law seeks to assure that protection through immunity while at the same time preventing such a witness from defeating criminal proceedings by taking the "Fifth."

beginning of trouble?

DEAR ABBY: Your viewpoint and that of other executives' wives on the subject of husbands taking their secretaries out to lunch would be appreciated. The claim that there's nothing "wrong" in it makes me bristle. I disapprove, but am almost ashamed to say so because I am called absurd, insecure and just plain childish.

I am married to an executive and this is my problem. I was formerly a secretary (not his) and never found "business" to be the topic of conversation when my boss invited me to lunch.

I wonder what the silent league the secretaries' husbands-have to say?

NOBODY'S FOOL
DEAR NOBODY'S: Lunching with one's boss is not in itself morally wrong, but the attendant gossip can do much harm. Circumstances differ, however, and one must consider the boss, the secretary, and place and the frequency of such dates. And who's feeding whom what.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is a wonderful person, but my husband thinks her husband is a terrible bore.

This friend has had us to her home for dinner several times, and I've been able to persuade my husband to go. But now he says, "No more!"

I have had this couple for dinner and although my husband wasn't rude, he didn't urge them to stay longer when they said, rather early and halfheartedly, "I think we'd better be going."

Abby, I have entertained some of my husband's business friends, many of whom are bores, but I don't complain. So it is asking too much of him to do the same for me once in a while?

Why should we wives do all the giving?

EQUAL PARTNERS
DEAR PARTNER: You shouldn't. And many don't. Why don't you play "let's make a deal"? As an equal partner, your husband should do as much for you as you do for him.

DEAR ABBY: The man signed DISGUSTED, who was wondering how to signal a waitress in a waitress in a restaurant, should use a little common sense.

I've been a waitress for five years, and the first thing I do is let the customer know my name. If the waitress doesn't do this, the customer should ask. It saves a lot of confusion when he needs something if he knows exactly who waited on him.

I don't know any waitress who likes to be called "Hey, Girlie," or have someone whistle or snap their fingers to summon her.

Thanks for hearing our side.

C.S.
DEAR C.S.: Not all waitresses want to be addressed by their names. Some feel it is too familiar. So unless the waitress is wearing a name pin, or introduces herself, I recommend calling her either "Miss" or "Waitress."

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, July 27, the 209th day of 1976. There are 157 days left in the year.

Thought for today: It is a characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things — Henry David Thoreau, American writer, 1871-1862.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, a resident of the South Carolina settlement called Ninety Six reported that an Indian raid had left the area's plantations desolate and that it was thought the British were behind the attack.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Son, while you're away at school, don't forget to write... even if it's only for money."

GRANDSTAND SHOW — Cinda Stinson's "CyndaKated Singers" are pictured providing those attending the Fayette County grandstand show some afternoon entertainment Monday.

VERY INTERESTING — Mike Haubner, one of the Fayette County fair's judges in the area of agricultural-engineering projects, rates Johnny Blair's (right) electrical project. Johnny is a member of the Jasper Top-Notchers 4-H club. The division also included wood-working and crops and winners will be announced Saturday.

HOW DO YOU STEER THIS THING? — Steering a steer can be a real challenge as shown in the photo. The animal was finally brought under control but apparently just couldn't wait to leave the weighing pen. The weighing took place at the Fayette County Fair Monday afternoon.

Cook tops beef carcass show

Todd Cook took the alive evaluation of the Junior Fair beef carcass show at the Fayette County Fair Monday evening.

Cook's steer placed first in the heavyweight division of the carcass show and then placed first overall with the top five winners from the heavyweight and lightweight divisions. Scott Gerber took second place in the overall division while gaining a second behind Cook in the heavyweight competition. Alan Miller took first place in the lightweight division and was third in the overall show behind

Cook and Gerber.

The steers, evaluated on hoof Monday, will be sent to various slaughter houses to be processed and the carcass champion will be sold at auction at the Junior Fair beer sale Friday night at the sales-show arena.

Intelligence probe nears completion

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Ethics Committee Chairman John J. Flynt says the panel's hearings on the leak of a secret intelligence committee report have narrowed the search for the person who supplied the report to CBS reporter Daniel Schorr.

But Flynt refused to speculate if his committee would be able to identify the source after the $150,000 probe is completed.

"We found out a great deal. We found out much more than we found out in the informal interviews between investigators and the witnesses," Flynt said in an interview Monday.

"I think we have received sworn testimony which is both cumulative and is in addition to the information we gained during the informal hearing process," he said.

Before the hearings, committee investigators had interviewed more than 400 persons and had said they had been unable to track down Schorr's source. Asked if the hearings that began last week had moved the committee closer to finding the source, Flynt said:

"That's not the sole purpose of these hearings. But in answer to your direct question, yes.

"The overriding purpose is to find out how things like this could happen and hopefully to make recommendations which would tighten up the handling of classified material, classified documents and security matters by the House and by committees."

Asked if he envisioned having to report back to the House that the committee couldn't find Schorr's source, Flynt said, "I am not going to second-guess what the committee is going to do. Even at this time, and certainly by the time hearings end, we will be in a position to file a good report to the House ... and will have accomplished the mission given us."

During Monday's hearing, the committee questioned Rep. Robert M. Giaimo, D-Conn., a member of the now-defunct intelligence committee, and two former staff members of the panel.

Giaimo appealed for revision of rules that keep congressmen from revealing embarrassing information even though they may feel the information should be known by the public.

Ohio's Cradle was the Massachusetts town of Rutland, home of Gen. Rufus Putnam. He and Benjamin Tupper signed advertisements published in New England papers Jan. 25, 1786, inviting soldiers of the Revolution and "all other good citizens" to join the Ohio Company which later founded Marietta.

COOL IDEA — New iced desserts stay frozen longer—as long as it takes to finish a meal.

History of frozen desserts

Once upon a time water ices were a delicacy reserved only for emperors. In the first century A.D. the Roman emperor, Nero, would send sprinters to fetch snow from nearby mountains. To the snow were added fruit juices and flavorings. Result: a frozen "ice" much as we have today.

With the fall of Rome, the secret of making this confection was lost. But in the 13th century, Marco Polo brought back a recipe from China, with milk substituted for snow. From then on, ice cream enjoyed vast popularity. It was brought to the American colonies in the 17th century; George Washington had tow ice cream freezers installed at his home in Mt. Vernon.

The Italians enjoy delicious water ices—the Italian ices we eat here in America—called granita. And the Bavarians love their combinations of egg whites and custard—another kind of local iced dessert.

Of course, ice cream is still America's favorite iced dessert—we now eat more than 750 million gallons of it every year!

Carey appoints Kennedy sister

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey has appointed Jean Kennedy Smith, sister of the late President Kennedy, as chairwoman of a new state Council for Mental Hygiene Planning.

"Mrs. Smith and other members of her family have demonstrated a deep concern for the welfare of the mentally disabled," Carey said Monday in announcing the appointment of Mrs. Smith, a New York City resident who has a mentally retarded sister.

The new 15-member council will develop statewide goals for the state Department of Mental Hygiene. Its members include the commissioner of mental hygiene and 14 others appointed by the governor.

Mrs. Smith's appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

Letters from readers of The Record-Herald

EDITOR, RECORD - HERALD:

Recently, two letters were printed in the Record-Herald which attacked me, City Council, my office, members of my staff, and a number of reputable professional people who work in various capacities for the City.

I will not comment on the attempt to discredit my efforts to provide full and accurate financial information to the taxpaying citizens of this community, other than to state that many concerned citizens who are actually paying the bills have expressed their appreciation for the efforts which have been made to clarify our financial picture.

The item I really want to emphasize, is the repeated reference to what possibly should be called the Worthington Syndrome or the Worthington Spectre — These imaginary horrible things coming our way from Worthington.

Let's take the City Manager first. Yes, I am from Worthington, my three children all graduated from Worthington High School, my wife, a long tenure teacher in the Columbus School System maintains a dual residency at both our home which we still own in Worthington and our apartment here in Washington (for which, incidentally, for the benefit of the Sweet Lady who recently said on the radio that "I was too good to live here", I have paid out over $1,700.00 in rent, electric, water and sewer bills in my ten months as a Washington resident) and I worked for the City of Worthington for fourteen and a half years — eight of those years as City Manager. Does that make me unacceptable in Washington C.H.?

How about Mr. Bird of the engineering firm of Bird and Bull? Mr. Bird has done engineering work for Washington C.H. as far back as 1952. Check the plaque on the front of the fire house. His name is there under a date early in the 1960's. Yes, his home is in Worthington. His business office has a Worthington postal address, but is not actually in the City. Does this make him unacceptable in Washington C.H.?

Reference was made to an attorney from a law firm familiar with Worthington — Yes, he used to be the Law Director In Worthington, and is a very capable attorney and a personable gentleman connected with a Columbus based law firm that I have respected for years. His firm still represents Worthington through a member of their firm. This latter person incidentally was formerly the Director of Administration on my Worthington staff and succeeded me for six months as acting City Manager while the Worthington Council sought a new Manager. Does this make these talented professionals unacceptable in Washington C.H.?

If all things coming from Worthington are to be considered bad, perhaps 80 per cent of us in Washington C.H. had better look elsewhere for medical insurance — did you know that all those Blue Shield policies come to us from Worthington? Likewise, the State Disaster Services Agency has a Worthington address, and the assistant Director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency lives there.

Recently, the Fayette County Republican Women's Club had a picnic and their guest speaker was Dick Jackson, the Director of the Ohio Department of Transportation. I have known Dick for at least ten years — he lives in Worthington. Does this make him unacceptable in Washington C.H.?

Ads for the 1976 Fayette County Fair tell us Flippo the Clown will be with us. I've personally known Flippo for at least ten years — he lives in Worthington. Does that make him unacceptable in Washington C.H.?

John Coleman, Executive Director of the Ohio Municipal League is president of the Worthington City Council. John, whom I consider a good friend, naturally lives in Worthington. Perhaps Washington C.H. should drop its membership in the Municipal League because of John's Worthington connections.

I know of no Washington Council members who are "formerly from Worthington" but the list is endless of people of good reputation and expertise who do live there whose help may filter down to us as we go about the task of attempting to improve our own local government and deliver to the citizens of Washington C.H. the type of services which they may wish to have.

I am proud of what was accomplished during my tenure in Worthington — be it my four years spent in a growing Police Department, my two and one half years as Finance Director and especially my unprecedented eight years as City Manager. Go take a look — you will see an extremely fine, progressive, growing, well run community — it did not just get that way by itself. Many people worked hard to get it where it is and others continue to work hard to keep it as a leading community in Franklin County.

If things or people coming from Worthington are so extremely suspect and bad for Washington C.H., then I do not understand why a member of the letter writers family, referred to at the beginning of this letter, would have found it possible to work for R. W.

Wander, Inc., a construction firm — located where? — You guessed it, Worthington! Skeptical? Check the 1970, 1973 and 1975 Robinson Directories issued for Washington C.H. and Fayette County.

G.H. Shapter, Jr.
City Manager

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Is it true the City Manager wants a 15 per cent raise for himself and a 12 per cent raise for City Employees? Where will this money come from? If the City has enough money laying around to give Mr. Shapter what he wants, shouldn't that money be used instead to give the people what they want — the turning back on of our City Street Lights?

If our City is as broke as Mr. Shapter has told us, how could Council even consider giving a raise to anyone at this time? Especially one as large as Mr. Shapter apparently wants? How could Council justify this to the people? If we can't afford Lighting for our Streets, how can we afford a Salary Raise for the City Manager?

Knowing the feeling of this Community about our City Street Lights being off, how could Mr. Shapter ask for a raise? He has been City Manager less than a year. Is a raise in order? I think not. Would a raise at this time be irresponsible spending? I think so.

Is it true Mr. Shapter has intimated he will leave Washington C.H. if a raise is not forthcoming? If it is, I'm sure of one thing: With Mr. Shapter in Worthington, a raise in the City Manager's Salary would no longer present a problem to the people of Washington C.H.

Pay particular attention to news releases about your City Government, Citizens. If it is true about these raises, the local news media will report it. When and if this occurs, go to Council Meeting, make your thoughts known. If you don't think Council should give Mr. Shapter a raise, tell them so. After all, it is YOUR money. Take an active interest in how YOUR money is being spent.

Remind City Council and the City Manager who they are working for.

They work for you! Remind them that the people of this City have not relinquished the reins of governing power, nor do they intend to.

The time has passed for sitting on your apathy. The Constitution guarantees you a voice in City Government. Use it!

Mrs. Joanne N. Allen
401 East Elm Street

Editor's Note—Both the city manager and City Council chairman Joseph O'Brien were contacted concerning the first question about raises. Both denied having had any discussions about raises for the manager or other city employees.

TV Viewing

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC-TV is taking another whack at giving daytime audiences something besides game shows, soap operas and reruns of situation comedies.

The network tried and failed to attract big ratings with "Take My Advice," a program styled after the "Dear Abby" newspaper column, but now is back with "The Gong Show" and "The Fun Factory."

Producers of both new weekday series hope their shows are the "something different" that many viewers are said to be looking for. "Daytime needed something new and I think 'The Gong Show' is it," proclaims producer Gene Banks. Ed Fishman, one of the executive producers of "The Fun Factory," said his series fills the need in daytime for "something that didn't have a structure that says here's where we're going, either with a bonus round or a storyline."

On "The Gong Show," amateur performers are given a chance to display their talents to the TV audience and a panel of three celebrities, and if one of the three stars thinks the act stinks, he or she sounds the gong and ends it. Otherwise the performers continue and are awarded points, with the big winner each day walking off with $516.32.

One recent show featured four tap dancing sisters, a clown who juggled, a mime who did magic, a woman doing a Shirley Temple imitation and a man trying to sing. The latter two got the gong.

"The emphasis is on sheer fun and entertainment," says Banks. "It's not a school for talent. The celebrities do it with the idea of having fun, and the acts know beforehand they could get gonged."

Obviously, fun is also the goal of "The Fun Factory." It is a game show in the sense that prizes are given for answering questions, but that aspect shares the spotlight with comedy sketches, singing and dancing. There is no structured format and the pace is frenzied.

"It's like doing a different variety show every day," says Fishman. "It's completely different each day except for the opening and closing songs, which takes up a total of about a minute. We thought it was time to see if the daytime audience would find a change refreshing."

Unfortunately, a sample viewing of the two programs merely reaffirms that different is not necessarily better. Neither was any more engaging than its more traditional competitors.

"The Gong Show" had a few good moments, thanks to those performers who either were very good — or very bad. But the format of the show, with its reliance on witticisms from the celebrity guests and obnoxious comments from host Chuck Barris, precluded the chance for much development along those lines.

And "The Fun Factory" turned out to be a combination of the worst elements of comedy — deadly dull material — with the worst elements of game shows — giving expensive prizes for answering insultingly simple questions.

The two shows may mature in time. In any case, it's nice to see NBC making an effort to find something at least slightly different.

management of natural resources by discussing current developments in that area.

Ambulances need repair

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Repair kits to reinforce brackets holding gasoline tanks on ambulances manufactured by a division of the Sheller-Globe Corp. have been sent to 5,090 known operators, a company official said.

Edward Talty, Sheller-Globe vice president for public affairs, said there have been no additional incidents of fuel-tank fires since two were reported within 90 minutes of each other near New Orleans in June.

A patient being transported in one of the ambulances burned to death. The second ambulance burned while transporting persons injured in the first fire, Talty said.

The affected ambulances were those with Superior coaches mounted on Cadillac chassis built since 1971 by the Superior Lima Division in Lima, he said.

The corporation's Lima vehicle planning and development center has not determined what caused the gasoline tank problems in the two New Orleans cases, he said.

Talty said investigators suspect that bumpy rural roads may have played a part in breaking the exhaust system near the tanks "and had a blow-torch effect on the tanks."

MARKET BARROWS WEIGHED — The judge stands poised at the right of the photo ready to weigh the hog rushing into the weighing pen. Many people assisted in the "weigh-in" during Monday's Fayette County Fair. Hogs have a tendency to go anywhere but where you want them to.

WHEN IS A CUP NOT A CUP? — Rhonda Hecoax, 15, of New Holland, explained to those attending her demonstration that a cup of flour is a dry measure calibrated from a dry measuring cup and not a coffee cup. She revealed other useful information used in cooking which every good cook should know during the demonstration finals in the Fayette County Junior Fair Activities tent Monday afternoon. She is a member of 4-H and Future Homemakers of America.

Man engaged via scoreboard

CHICAGO (AP) — Mark Bernhard, 20, got engaged to his girlfriend, right on the scoreboard at Comiskey Park. The board said: "Mary Sisler, will you marry me? Love Mark."

The fans at the White Sox doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins on Sunday were in suspense. "Will she or won't she," the scoreboard said. "We're laying 2-1 odds. Aw, come on, Mary."

The whole thing was cooked up by Bernhard, a student at St. Ambrose College in Davenport, Iowa, and Bill

Veeck, owner of the White Sox.

Veeck, the self-proclaimed hustler who will do almost anything for a laugh, was ready for a disappointment. Waiting in reserve was the message, "Mary says no. Sorry Pal, we tried."

But Veeck didn't have to use it. "Mary says yes," the scoreboard said and a roar went up from the fans.

It was about the only thing they had to cheer about. The Sox lost 13-8. But that was okay. When the Sox are losing, Veeck always thinks of something.

"I was shocked speechless," said Mary, 20, an education major at Clarke College in Dubuque, Iowa. "There was no question about it. I said yes immediately."

Showers and thundershowers moved into Ohio this morning and apparently will dominate the state's weather into Wednesday.

An area of showers and scattered thunderstorms stretched this morning from west central Ohio northeast into Lake Erie and were moving southeast.

These showers and thunderstorms were moving ahead of a front which was to move southward across Ohio this morning, then return northward tonight and Wednesday with more shower and thundershower activity.

Highs both today and Wednesday were to be mostly in the 80s and lows tonight were expected to be in the 60s.

For City Council members

Sewer measure on calendar

An ordinance amending the sewer billing procedure will be among four pieces of legislation considered by Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night.

Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Fraternal Order of Police building, 470 N. Fayette St.

Other legislative items include ordinances to accept Yellowbud Court and Commercial Avenue. There will also be a resolution affirming an appointment to the Washington C.H. Civil Service Commission.

Among the topics to be discussed by Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter include the city's computer, a water rate increase, a gas rate increase, a zoning request and millage which will terminate at the end of this year unless renewed in November.

Set help for Luken

CINCINNATI (AP) — A widely quoted political campaign consultant has stepped in to help organize Democrat Thomas A. Luken's attempt to unseat 16-year veteran Donald Clancy in Ohio's 2nd Congressional district.

Mark Shields visited the district last week after being asked to participate in the campaign by the Committee for an Effective Congress—which is working in 50 congressional districts around the country.

Shields was consultant to John Gilligan when he was elected governor in 1970 and worked for Luken in 1974 when he defeated Willis Gradison in a special election in the 1st district.

He also served as a special consultant to the National Broadcasting Co. during the recent Democratic National Convention.

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Here is a type of hand often misplayed by declarer. Let's assume he wins the club lead with the king and plays the king and another heart.

When West shows out on the second heart lead, South is in trouble. Assuming reasonable defense, the best he can do is score two spades, three hearts, a diamond and two clubs.

But declarer has a lock on the contract if he plays more carefully. He should realize that three notrump is ice-cold if he can score four heart tricks, and all his thoughts should therefore be concentrated on this one aim.

There is no danger of going down if the hearts are divided 3-2, so South should start by assuming a 4-1 division. If he addresses himself carefully to that possibility, he finds he can play the hearts so as to overcome a holding of four to the Q-10 in either opponent's hand.

As we have seen, leading the king and another heart fails if East has Q-10-x-x. The proper way to initiate the suit is to start by leading a low heart to the ace! Assuming that both defenders follow low, continue with a low heart from dummy, in which case:

1. If East shows out, you take the king and play the nine toward the jack to assure four heart winners.
2. If East follows low, play the nine to guarantee four heart tricks.
3. If East produces the ten or queen, win with the king and return the nine to assure four heart tricks.

A player who thoughtlessly proceeds on the assumption that the hearts will be favorably divided is guilty of negligence and will periodically have to pay the piper for his carelessness.

Indian Ear-Piercing Myth

What is your opinion on ear piercing? I read in the American Indian book, "History, Manners and Customs of the Indian Nations," that Indians stopped piercing their ears because it stopped blood circulation to the lower lobe and when frostbite occurred the lobe would drop off.

— Mr. H. C., Pa.

Dear Mr. C.:

Had there been any truth to this myth many distortions of the ear lobe would have been visible to all of us.

I have never seen this anatomical disfigurement.

There is no way that piercing of the ear can interfere with the blood circulation unless a severe infection occurred as a result of piercing.

I do have special feelings about ear piercing. I do not believe that lay people who perform this procedure (and I might say that many do this very well) should be permitted to pierce the ears of a young child without the specific written consent of the parent or guardian.

Eggs are my favorite food. I don't feel satisfied unless I have two or more every day. Isn't there any egg-eating diet that can be used to lose weight? — Mr. J.F., Wash.

Dear Mr. F.:

You are trying to find some way to substantiate a fundamental error in your diet.

To begin with, it is acknowledged that eggs present a special problem that must be considered important. Their high cholesterol content increases the cholesterol level in the blood and thus plays an important role in the development of arteriosclerotic changes in the blood vessels.

In addition to the basic error in your diet, you are seeking to increase the egg intake as a means of losing weight. It is true that eggs by themselves are not particularly high in calories, but with the bread, butter, bacon or ham that usually accompany egg dishes, the total caloric intake can be enormous.

My suggestion is that you limit your egg intake to two or four a week and that you find a much more sensible dietary regime for weight control.

Is there any danger in giving children booster shots during the summer months? — Mrs. E. L., N.C.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Prior to the discovery and use of the Salk polio vaccine booster shots were not generally given during the summer months.

Today, pediatricians and family physicians are not hesitant about doing so. The only time there may be some restriction is following a severe cold, or when recovering from some other illness.

THE BETTER HALF By Barnes

"Do you have one for the sixth anniversary of a twenty-ninth birthday?"

In Focus by Charlie Pensyl

Those who visit the photographic exhibit at the Fayette County Fair this week will see some interesting pictures. The accent seems to be more on beautiful scenic pix and nature shots, especially the beautiful Western scenery from some of the Miami Trace lensmen.

There's no doubt that top honors should go to the two sweepstakes winners whose work dominated the show. Tim Carson shows his artistry with Cibachrome. One of the Cibachrome prints he printed himself was awarded the Best-of-Show for prints, but it was only one of a number of fine prints he submitted.

Penne Halliday proved that you don't have to go far away places to find beauty. Her beautiful Sweepstakes-winning slide was shot right out the back door of her apartment there in the city. And, like Tim Carson's Sweepstakes-winning print, it shows "class."

Being up against competition like Mark Thelma (this boy's really good with the camera), Tom Payton (you remember his 1975 Fair stuff), and then there's John Halliday and Ed Summers whose pictures always show professionalism, Penne and Tim can well be proud.

New to our Fair competition this year is Don Julian. He has a fresh approach and a professional style. Then there's Kathryn Smith and Cheryl Blue, both of whom seem to have a natural feel for composition and color quality. Bill Metais is another of the new people that will be giving the Howard Miller-Joe and Ruthann Giebelhouse-Penne and John Halliday outfit a rough time in future contests.

Be sure to come out to the fair and see the photo show. It's worth seeing.

ABOUT WHAT?

Three charges filed against area driver

A Washington C.H. man was charged with three traffic violations Monday following a two-car collision on Ohio 207, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

Traveling south on Ohio 207, a car driven by Eddie J. Miller, 22, of Ohio 207, reportedly struck a parked car while he was in the process of parking just north of the Washington-Waterloo Road.

The parked car belonged to Sally C. Havens, 21, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., and both vehicles were severely damaged in the 10:35 p.m. Monday accident. Miller was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless operation, and not following driving restrictions.

While in the process of backing from a parking space on the Armo Steel Corp. parking lot, a car driven by Pardon F. Mason Jr., 34, of 426 Peabody St., reportedly struck a guardrail beam on the lot. The car was moderately damaged in the 11 p.m. Monday accident.

Washington C.H. police officers checked two Monday accidents involving trucks in both cases.

A van driven by Richard C. Damron, 32, of 1163 Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, was eastbound on Court Street, when it reportedly sideswiped a dump truck parked in front of French's Hardware Store at 9:03 a.m. Monday.

The parked dump truck had been driven by Wayne Rhonemus, 60, of 1226 E. Temple St., and both vehicles were slightly damaged.

Phillip L. Morris, 33, Camp Grove Road, was westbound on W. Court Street, approaching Hinde Street, when his truck reportedly collided with a car driven by Francis L. Stolzenburg, 27, of 527 Flint Drive, which was also westbound on Court Street at 7:30 a.m. Monday. The Stolzenburg car was moderately damaged.

Suicide attempt probed

A 20-year-old Washington C.H. woman is listed in "fair" condition in Fayette County Memorial Hospital following an attempted suicide incident, Washington C.H. police officers reported.

The Washington C.H. woman was taken to the hospital by her father who said she had taken an overdose of tranquilizers and had been in a semi-conscious condition in her bedroom at the home. The incident occurred during Monday, police officers reported.

The front entrance to Helfrich

Supermarket, 806 Delaware St., reportedly sustained $30 in damage when the glass front on the entrance was kicked or struck with an object sometime Monday or Tuesday morning, store officials told police officers.

Christle Varney, 11, of 331 Rose Ave., and Thomas M. Rucker, 10, of 912 North St., were reportedly bitten by a dog in the vicinity of the Rose Avenue Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. Monday. Both youths were taken to Fayette County Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

Jimmy Carter writing analyzed

CHICAGO (AP) — Handwriting analysts say Jimmy Carter's penmanship shows he is very ambitious — sometimes to the point of being unrealistic.

President Gerald Ford is friendly and doesn't give up easily. Ronald Reagan is more independent than Ford, and likes to see things objectively, the analysts say.

The assessments were those of Evelyn Budd-Michaels, a graphoanalyst from Sherman Oaks, Calif., and V. Peter Ferrara, president of a Chicago group called the "International Graphoanalysis Society."

The society, with about 500 shareholder-members, is holding its 47th annual meeting here this week.

What's new at library?

Book nook

By ERIC HALVERSON
Librarian

All too often after the failure of recognized medical practice to provide the sought after relief, patients have turned to medical "quacks" who are all too willing to relieve a sufferer of his money. These quacks have obscured the significant discoveries that are being made about unorthodox medicine.

"Other Healers, Other Cures" by Helen Kruger (Bobbs-Merrill Co., New York, 1974) is a new investigation of the alternate forms of the healing art. Words like yoga and acupuncture, once considered exotic, have now become familiar to thousands of Americans. Doctors are now willing to accept that patients can be restored to health using methods that vary greatly from what once was considered standard medical practice. Many medical and dental schools have launched investigations and training programs into areas of the medical arts that would have been unthinkable only a few years ago.

"Other Healers" explores the world of some six million Americans who suffer from severe and chronic disorders. Many of these problems have been deemed incurable yet some of these individuals, in a stubborn search for relief, have been helped by strangely unorthodox methods. The book tells of a man who experienced heart surgery without having been cut, and a woman whose cancer was diagnosed from her photograph.

The book is a comprehensive survey of the alternate forms of healing. Ms. Kruger, who has undergone many of the treatments described in the book, surveys virtually every healing art imaginable and some not so imaginable. They range from the mildly different to the sensational, and a good deal of information is provided on the unscrupulous people who exist on the fringes of all medicine to prey on the sick.

Woman placed on probation

Sentencing of a Washington C.H. woman found guilty earlier of two non-traffic offenses was imposed Monday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Alice M. Gardner, 19, of 429 Blackstone Ave., was found guilty of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest during a Friday session of Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

On Monday, she was fined $25 for the disorderly conduct conviction, and $100 with 60 days in jail and all the time suspended for the other offense. She was placed on probation for one year by Judge Robert L. Simpson.

All energy sources needed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Dr. William L. Fisher, assistant secretary of the interior, said Monday that America does not have the luxury of choosing any one source of energy, but must develop all its energy resources to deal with the energy problem.

Fisher was the first of 22 nationally-known energy experts who are participating in a week-long energy forum at the University of Akron.

Fisher observed that because of the nation's declining domestic oil production, America should look to coal for her fossil fuel requirements. Even with the completion of the Alaska pipeline in 1977, Fisher said, "We will still come up with a net loss in total domestic oil production in that year."

Regarding nuclear energy, Fisher commented that it has problems, "none of which are insuperable."

"Great strides have been made and are being made in making nuclear power more environmentally acceptable," he added.

The recent initiative proposal in California regarding nuclear energy, which was defeated by a 2-1 margin, was cited by Fisher as "another sign of the dawning realization that we cannot choose between alternatives; we must develop all sources that we have."
